

MISTY MOUNTAIN PRESS RELEASE

A new band, Misty Mountain, has emerged on the scene as a rocking tribute band blasting the songs of Led Zeppelin across Long Island. With guitar licks reminiscent of Jimmy Page and howling vocals that bring back memories of Robert Plant, the band transports audiences back to the days of power rock and roll.

The band started to come together in 2012 when lead guitarist Elliot Negrin and lead singer Ed Terry met on the local scene performing together in different projects. Both had a long love affair with the Led Zeppelin sound and started to put together a band ready to pay tribute to the rock legends. As the pair started to explore possibilities, they realized a seed had sprung and a group was needed to blast the power of Led Zeppelin's music.

The band was complete with the addition of Shawn Murray on drums and Alan Levy on bass. The four accomplished musicians of Misty Mountain started blending and developed a sound eerily similar to Led Zeppelin's performances.

Misty Mountain has recently presented its tribute performance at The Funky Biscuit in Boca Raton, Florida, to a sold out house. It also played to a 6000+ crowd at Eisenhower Park's Harry Chapin Theatre in NY, back in August 2021.

The band's mission for the upcoming year includes expanding its 2022 tour throughout the country and bringing the energy and sound of Led Zeppelin to multiple venues.
